

Robert M. Musen FSA, MAAA
Executive Vice President and Chief of Staff

RGA Reinsurance Company

As Executive Vice President and Chief of Staff of RGA Reinsurance Company, Robert Musen performs a multifaceted job that includes leading several of RGA's corporate initiatives, both domestically and internationally.

Prior to joining RGA in 2000, Bob spent a quarter of a century with MetLife, where in his last assignment he was responsible for individual life pricing, valuation, profit analysis, investment management, underwriting management and expense analyses. Bob also led the teams that worked on the actuarial aspects of MetLife's demutualization for its individual life and annuities businesses.

Bob received a Bachelor of Arts (A.B.) degree in Mathematics from Princeton University and a Master of Science (M.S.) degree in Statistics from Stanford University. He is an active member of the Society of Actuaries (SOA) and has chaired two examination committees. He has also been the SOA's liaison to the Mathematical Association of America and has been the Vice-Chairperson of the SOA's Committee on Career Encouragement. Bob is, in addition, a Member of the American Academy of Actuaries, and recently served as Chairperson of the Academy's Technology Committee.
